WILL ROGERS BARES SECRETS UNCOVERED BY RATS' COACHES

(Special To The News)
BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Sept.
28.—Say, there is an awful lot in the papers
the last few days about these experiments the rats college professors are making with rats.
One professor had to turn his out, for the rats know enough not to try any of the experiments.
Another one wanted to find out what effect athletics had on anyone's intelligence.

They wanted to see if he was dumber or keener after running back punts, and tackling another rat for a while. The experiment showed that the rat was keener with athletics, by him demanding tuition and board for nothing and 10 per cent of the game on all big games.
The rat with no exercise wound up as a bond salesman.
Yours,
WILL.

PA NEWS OBSERVES

The axle broke on a truck while going up East Washington street, recently, and the front wheel came off.
The wheel rolled for two blocks and was still going strong when it was caught by a passerby.

Officials and clerks in the city building are assured plenty of heat this winter. Truck loads of coal were hailed to the building this morning and stored in the coal basin.

The loud, shrill sound of the burglar alarm of a local store drew the attention of many New Castle people Friday afternoon. The alarm is alarming, to say the least. It has a high pitched soprano voice, with a siren and klaxonish effect. It demands attention. The stage was set and everything was ready for the grand robbery and then the capture of the burglars. But, there were no police, no robbery, nor burglars. Electricians were testing the alarm.

Much activity is noticed along the state highways now. Storm fences have been hauled to various locations along the road and will soon be put into place for the winter. Gangs are also noticed in different sections making repairs to the brick and concrete highways of the state routes, getting them in readiness for the approach of winter.

Almost every other car Pa News saw in the city last night bore an Ohio license. Youngstown and environments sent a large crowd of supporters to the game at the stadium. Real sportsmanship was exhibited throughout both by fans and New Castle and the Ohio city.

Crowd at the game at the stadium last night was handled much more efficiently than on the opening night.
The additional entrances and ticket booths took care of the situation nicely.
Likewise, it appeared as if the lighting of the field was better than on the night of the first contest. The week ago it was moonlight, but last night there was none of this, and the darker night seemed to help the floodlight scheme.

Tomorrow is rally day in New Castle
Sunday schools and churches. Accept the invitation and attend services.

Tonight, when you retire turn the clock on eleven hours. Daylight savings time ends tonight. Everything will operate on daylight savings time on Sunday.

Large numbers of police officers, placed at strategic street intersections last night, handled the traffic situation following the game at the stadium in excellent shape.

Pa News is glad to welcome the world war veterans of the 323rd Light Field Artillery, who are gathering

Miami Prepares To Give Aid

MIAMI, Sept. 28.—Twenty persons are known to be dead at Nassau and additional deaths are feared in other sections of the Bahamas as a result of the tropical hurricane which swept the islands for three days, according to messages received by the Tropical Radio Station here early today.

News that the violent storm, which has been felt at Miami to the extent of crippling the city's electrical system and throwing it into darkness throughout the night, had resulted in loss of life and heavy property damage came several hours after established with Nassau for the first time in almost three days.
The dispatch gave the first details of the horror to which the islands had been subjected for a period of more than sixty hours as the violent storm lashed at the Bahamas and caused untold damage and misery.

In City

HALF THOUSAND ARE EXPECTED

They're singing an old refrain up around the Castleton today. You may remember it but if you don't it ran something like this, "The infantry, the cavalry and the blooming engineers, would never make Artillery-men in a hundred thousand years."

Every lad who ever rode a jughed on a swing team, or fired a 75 on the recoil, will admit without blushing that the artillery was the only branch of the service that ever amounted to a tinker's so-and-so and of all the artillery in the world war, the 323rd was easily the best. We're quoting now from the remarks around the Castleton, where the 323rd Light Field Artillery is holding its annual convention.

Fatter and Grayer
The boys are a little fatter today than they were eleven years ago today. There isn't so much hair on the top of their heads, in the place where the hair ought to grow, and what is left is graying rapidly. But the same carefree spirit that carried them through the Argonne is apparent, and by mid-afternoon the convention will be under a full head of steam, while the "cassions go rolling along."

The 323rd Field Artillery was recruited mostly from Beaver, Butler and Lawrence counties. Organized as a unit of the 83rd Division in Camp Sherman, O., they were transferred to the First Army corps and then later to the 32nd Division. They saw plenty of service and the quiet eyed lad who stands around the Castleton lobby today, with his hands in his vest and a cigar in his mouth, was one of the lads who sent over a lot of hot iron into German territory in 1918.

Banquet and Election
At 2:15 the sessions of the convention will get under way in the ball room of The Castleton and 3:05 the election of officers will take place. At 3:40 the annual Memorial service will be held and a little later an entertainment program will be presented.
At six thirty the banquet will be held in the ballroom, and at 7:30 the entertainment of the evening will commence. About three hundred delegates are here, with more coming in hourly.

THREE FORMER COAL-IRON POLICE OFFICERS ACQUITTED

(BULLETIN)
PITTSBURGH Sept. 28.—A jury of 11 men and one woman today returned a verdict of not guilty, acquitting the three former coal and iron policemen of the Pittsburgh Coal company who were charged with beating John Borkowski, a miner to death.
The jury reached a verdict last night about four hours after the case was given to them and the sealed verdict was opened when court convened this morning. The men acquitted of the charge of murder were Walter J. Lyster, former lieutenant of the Coal and Iron Police of the company, Harold P. Watts and Frank Slapikis, both patrolmen working under Lyster.

May Compromise In Tariff Battle

Congress May Again Be Made
Supreme In Tariff Affairs

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON Sept. 28.—The acrimonious Senate fight over the flexible feature of the new tariff bill may end in a compromise by which the President will be stripped of all rate-making powers and Congress again made supreme in tariff affairs.
The Republican organization, fighting for the retention of the flexible provision, so that rates may be changed in the periods between the enactment of major tariff bills—stood ready to curb the President's powers.
This concession and a similar attitude on the part of Democrats, who originally fought for repeal of the whole flexible provision, may result in adoption of a compromise.

FEAR HUNDRED PERSONS DROWN

of a hundred persons were believed dead in Hidalgo state today as a re-zilian river and the consequent destruction of four entire towns.

Hundreds were reported homeless as a result of the inundation. Seventy-five million cubic meters of water was estimated to have flooded over the banks of the turbulent stream in the 24 hours elapsed since it first went on a rampage.
Torrential rains in the mountains which feed the stream were held responsible for the flood.

Testimony In Plumbing Case Not Completed

Stevenson Hearing To Be Concluded In Two Weeks
Council Decides

STEVENSON DENIES PLUMBERS' CHARGES

Says Code Has To Be Considered With Common Sense
—Many Testify

E. S. Stevenson, city inspector of plumbing, who has been charged with incompetence, failure to enforce the plumbing code and favoritism in a petition asking his removal by council, testified in his own defense Friday afternoon. After a hearing before council, which sat as a court all day, the inquiry was adjourned for two weeks, when it will be completed.
During the inquiry Stevenson denied the charges, but in admitting some technical violations of the code and common sense governing them and in reply to having allowed certain alleged irregularities in old buildings said that had the code been followed the buildings would have been made unsafe.

He denied favoring the Harold Stevenson firm, declared he had no interest in it whatsoever and relative to not calling meetings of the board of examiners, told council that there was no necessity for it and had he done so it would have resulted in the city paying out money unnecessarily.
At one time he remarked that he retained he would enforce the code strictly to the letter, but added that if the plumbers gathered would admit the truth they would declare they do not want it enforced to the letter.
He maintained the code is wrong in several conditions and said that common sense interpretations had to be employed.

Afternoon Session
When the hearing of Ed Stevenson, plumbing inspector, was resumed Friday afternoon, William Kennedy, journeyman plumber, was the first witness called.

Counsel for the petitioners against
Mr. Stevenson inquired what was custometry in testing plumbing put in houses and on other jobs and what was used as the means of testing the job and for what purpose.
He stated that the water test was made here and that it was for the purpose of determining whether or not there were any leaking joints or defective material. This had nothing to do with setting the fixtures.
Asked if Mr. Stevenson always made the inspections, his reply was "not always." He said that it was up to the plumbers to fill the plumbing work to be inspected with water. He said that this was never done on old work.

Questioned as to whether he remembered any specific instance when the test was not made, he replied that there was one.
He had sent for the inspector on completion of the work. He was on

Premier MacDonald And Daughter Start Voyage To America

By ROBERT W. THOMPSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng.,
Sept. 28.—After being delayed almost two hours by a heavy fog which came up out of the sea and enshrouded this port in a blanket of mist, the Cunard liner Berengaria, bearing Prime Minister J.
Ramsay MacDonald on his long heralded voyage to America, got under way at 9:30 a. m. today.

The giant liner was scheduled to sail at 8 a. m., but at that hour the fog was so heavy it was feared the ship might not be able to start until the afternoon tide at 4 p. m.
The mist slowly lifted, however, as Premier MacDonald slept peacefully in the Prince of Wales' suite aboard the liner, which in the days before the war was the suite of the former Kaiser Wilhelm when the Berengaria was the German liner Imperator.

Enthusiastic Send-off Premier MacDonald was unaware that the elements threatened to hold up the start of the voyage which is hailed as one of the great missions in behalf of Anglo-American friendship and unity in history. Externa-ly fired from the oriel of undergoing the enthusiastic send-off given him by the people of England, Premier MacDonald had retired early and slept soundly throughout the night.

The Premier appeared on deck soon after the fog had lifted and was greeted by brilliant sunshine in place of the murky pall which had overhung the harbor through the early morning hours.

His appearance was the signal for a wild burst of cheering by dock workers and a crowd of well-wishers who had gathered early at the pier to see the Premier's departure.

Premier MacDonald and his daughter smilingly responded to the sending with friendly waves of their arms.
Both looked refreshed and rested and

Gets 20 Years To Life For Killing Of His Young

THANKFUL FOR ESCAPING DEATH

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN
International News Service Staff

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 28.—
Mighty glad indeed that he escaped the electric chair, Earle F. Peacock, 22-year-old radio technician and dance hall "sheik" who strangled his wife, Dorothy, on their first wedding anniversary, today made preparations to leave immediately for Sing Sing prison at Ossining, where he must serve a sentence of from 20 years to imprisonment for life.

Peacock was found guilty of murder in the second degree by a "blue ribbon" jury of married men late last night after five hours and 21 minutes of actual deliberation. He had admitted frankly enough that he had floored his estranged wife with the butt end of his pistol on the night of April 21 last and choked her to death but he had pleaded extenuating circumstances.

It seemed "Dolls" had died him beyond words when she referred to his apartment in Mount Vernon as "the same old dump." He had hoped to effect a reconciliation. Hot words followed. They snarled each other before you could say "Jack Robinson," he had her on the floor and was strangling the life out of her.

Break In Levee Lets Flood Down On Augusta, Ga.

Frantic Population Flees In Effort To Get Out Of Sweep Of Waters

HEART OF AUGUSTA IN PATH OF FLOOD

Five Known Dead And Others Are Reported As
In Danger

(BULLETIN)
Augusta, Ga., Sept. 28.—A chill of terror swept over Augusta late this morning when the nine-mile levee holding back the flood waters of the Savannah river crumbled on the edge of town.

A frantic populace—Aug-usta's population is estimated at 60,000—made frenzied efforts to protect their lives and property from the sweep of the surging torrents through the heart of the town.

Despite the efforts of a virtual army of workmen, a 200-foot break opened in the crumbling dike opposite Mc-Elmurray Farm, four miles from here.

River Breaks Through
The raging river burst through the opening and the scores of men fled for their lives. The water sped on in cascades toward the heart of Augusta. Persons in the path of the water began a general exodus, lugging with them what valued possessions they could carry.

The scene was like a civilian evacuation before an invading army.
The toll of dead or missing already stood at five before the levee fell. Precautions were taken to prevent a further loss of life. A dozen other persons were known to be clinging perilously to tree tops in Hambury, S.
C., and rescue seemed impossible in the face of the raging torrents.

obviously anticipated a pleasurable voyage.
Will Do Our Best
Premier MacDonald saw international news service for a few moments just before the Berrington's mighty siren roared warning that the vessel was soon to get underway.
"We'll do our best over there," the Premier said, referring to his projected conversations with President Hoover. "I hope to have something good to tell Britain on my return."
Premier MacDonald and Miss Eschel walked to the top of gangplank to bid farewell to his son Alastair and his daughter Johan who had spent the night aboard.
From the quayside, Alastair held out a battered black Fedora as if to take up a collection and Eschel laughing threw down a number of half-pennies to her brother.
The younger members of the family stood on the dock until the vessel had passed out of Southampton harbor.

here today for their annual reunion. New Castle is pleased to act as host to this delegation of world war heroes.
Young Pa Newc saw his first mar- ble players of the fall this morning down the South Side. Several kid- dies were enjoying themselves at the old game of marbles.
The car in which Pa Newc was riding last night, managed to wiggle through the dense fog which prevailed almost continuously on the New Castle- Youngstown road. Many cars stopped at the side of the road because of the density. It wouldn't have taken much imagination to pretend the car was rambling along on a London highway.
An automobile lost a wheel at the top of the Youngstown hill. It is trouble enough to lose a wheel in the day time. But some people must lose wheels at night, and in a fog.
Flags are out today in honor of the veterans of the 323rd Light Field Ar- tillery, who are having their conven- tion here.
Wouldn't this be a fine warm after- noon for football? It was not enough last night at the stadium.

PEACOCK GOES TO SING SING

as he emerged from the court room, shackled to a deputy sheriff.
"What do you think of the verdict?" He was asked.
The young fellow, a pretty carey chap indeed, replied:
"I have nothing to say at this time."
Peacock had shown no emotion in court when the verdict was returned. He was deathly pale when he was led into the court room, handcuffed to an under sheriff. He quietly took a seat at defense counsel table, a few feet from where his mother, Mrs. Catherine Peacock, a stolid, heavy set housewife, was sitting.
WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 28.—"Thank God, the life of my boy has been saved."
So said Mrs. Catherine Peacock, mother of Earle F. Peacock, slayer of his wife Dorothy as she commented upon the verdict of the jury.
"My boy's life has been saved, and nothing else matters," said Mrs. Peacock.
The mother of the young slayer planned to visit him in his cell in the Westchester county jail today before he departs for Sing Sing prison to serve his sentence of from 20 years to imprisonment for life.

TWENTY PERSONS REPORTED DEAD AFTER HURRICANE

prepared to rush whatever aid nec- essary to Nassau and other islands in the Bahamas group which have felt the wrath of the hurricane.
Local residents also were prepared to render aid to Key West and other points on the extreme southern end of the Florida Peninsula, where the storm is expected to strike some time today.
Richard W. Gray, Miami meteorol- ogist, declared this morning that the Nassau storm was the greatest felt on that island since 1866. The death list was still fixed at 20 today.
Gray said that judging from infor- mation he had received, the storm center at 6 a. m. today was 100 miles east of Key West and about 110 miles south of Miami. It is moving at a rate of from four to five miles an hour in the direction of Key West, he added.
Gale winds continued to beat the coast here until well after dawn and some of the beautiful palm trees bor- dering Biscayne boulevard on the bay were levelled.
Gray said that these winds varied between 40 and 50 miles an hour and would probably continue throughout the day, with their intensity abating somewhat in the next few hours.
Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Sept. 28.—A gale which has been whipping Fort Lauderdale for the past 12 hours rose to a 50-mile an hour wind late this morning. No great property damage has been reported.
Orlando, Fla., Sept. 28.—Telephone communication with lower Florida was lost from here this morning.
The Naval radio station, it is re- ported, has been unable to commu- nicate with Key West, believed to be in the path of the tropical hurricane.
KEY WEST, Fla., Sept. 28.—(By Radio)—Key West was being whipped by a 60-mile an hour gale shortly before noon today.
The wind reached a velocity of 40 miles at 10 a. m., but an hour later it had increased to 60. The barometer was falling.
No great damage has been done so far.

THE AXE FOR PESTS

THERE is a strong suspicion that President Hoover was more serious than he would have the public think when he expressed the desire for a law giving the chief executive the arbitrary and discretionary power to order two executions a year for the good of the cause.

Of course, the president should not be taken literally, especially in view of his Quaker training. He has merely taken this way of saying that there are persons who make themselves obnoxious in the eyes of the executive.

Mr. Hoover should have gone a step farther and revealed the names of his first two candidates for execution and the 20 or 30 on his waiting list. He owed that to the people, who also have some ideas on the subject of nuisance executions.

While the president mentioned no names, the special interests and great divisions of opinion know who he had in mind. The dries are sure he meant the wets and the wets can tell you at least two dries slated to lose their heads. Reactionaries would recommend the progressives and vice versa. So also would it be between the regulars and insurgents.

Right now the president would like to muzzle the militarists-for-profit who are blocking his disarmament program, but the militarists are confident the pacifists would take precedence over them in the order of execution.

Perhaps, if he is shrewd and plays his cards well, Mr. Hoover will be able to execute his pests politically, which to all intents and purposes is as conclusive as capital punishment.

THE PRINCE OF LOVE

So the reason the Prince of Wales has not married is that he has never fallen in love.

Simple, isn't it? And very sensible, too.

It rather takes the wind out of all these theorists who have had so much to say in this matter.

When one considers this statement, one finds that all the arguments are for it.

The Prince is a man who enjoys himself. He likes sports, he likes the theater, he likes dancing. Often he surrounds himself with amusing people.

But it has been noticed that about the really serious things of life no man can be more serious than the Prince. He has been gay, but he has never made a fool of himself. Efforts have been made to ridicule his horsemanship, but these efforts fall flat, for the Prince never did when he picks himself up and remounts. He may poke fun at himself, but he never pokes fun at the common people.

Marriage for him is a tremendous responsibility. No wonder he takes it seriously. Doubtless he has been attracted by not a few girls. A man with less character might easily, as the English say, "gone a mucker," comments the Philadelphia Record. Princes and kings have done so in the past. But this Prince prefers to wait until Miss Right comes along, just as does the ordinary steady young man.

This new revelation will not lessen his popularity. It will add to the high regard in which he is justly held, not only among his own people but in every part of the world.

STATE STUDY OF ALMSHOUSES

Pennsylvania is said to be the first state to undertake a "case system" study of its almshouses. With a constant population of about 12,000 inmates and an annual turnover of about 8000, the survey contemplates keeping a life history of each newcomer, so that in a reasonably short time the tabulation should be complete.

The centralization tendency in the handling of paupers is not necessarily increased by the new program. While the commonwealth intends to enlarge its information upon the subject, in order to be in a position for a more intelligent advisory role, the administration will still remain with the authorities where it has lodged for a long time. Meanwhile the opportunity for consolidation of local units within counties has been facilitated by recent legislation.

As long as institutional care offers the chief remedy for meeting the problem, much can be accomplished if the counties will look to the state for guidance. In some instances the almshouses might become self-supporting by using the labor of the inmates to a greater extent for gardening and other duties congenial to them. Information which the department of welfare may gather along this line should be more useful than that derived by the directors of the poor in their limited jurisdictions.

The latest Scotch story is about a man who is encouraging his family to stick to the no-stocking fad until after Christmas eve.

Al Capone will be beset by conflicting sentiments in this world series, as being temporarily a resident of Philadelphia but nominally a Chicagoan.

"We Must Establish Equality," said the Cock, "By Clipping the Wings of Eagles."

Self-preservation, as we all learned in school, is the first law of nature. In man's case, self-preservation includes the preservation of self-respect, or a good opinion of himself is essential to his success and happiness.

This being true, we have only to mix the elementary rules of psychology to understand the gossip the jander and the critic.

In our dreams, says Freud, we do the things we wish to do and yet dare not do when awake, and in our waking hours we forget the things we wish to forget.

Thus the self-conscious mind, operating without our assistance or consent, gives freedom to the nature we could suppress; and thus it builds for us the gossip defense mechanism and means of preservation.

The purveyor of evil tales is in every instance a victim of envy—an infortunate shamed by poverty or want of education of social ostracism.

This shame not only threatens the ast tattered remnants of self-respect, it attacks the very foundations of happiness and thus threatens life itself.

The victim is in desperate straits, at last despair prompts his sub-ordinary to employ a desperate remedy. It inspires him to save himself without his knowing how or why he does it.

He is filled with envy and malice and all uncharitableness because he is

All About Strange Man.
He Cures And Kills.
A Long Road To Go.
Does Education Fail?

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1929, King Features Synd., Inc.)

Man is a strange animal. David Bernstein, Brooklyn tailor, deliberately killed a man against whom he had no grudge, pushing him off an elevated railroad platform in Brooklyn. No one saw him. He confessed to the police.

Insane, probably.

The law-making machinery of New York decided to kill Frank Plaza in the electric chair. Acute appendicitis threatened the electric chair program.

A good surgeon, hired at public expense, restored Plaza to the death house. "Out of kindness," he is allowed to play cards with his partner in crime, Michael Scianfoni, a wall separating them.

Strange uses of science, killing men by electricity, saving their lives by surgery, that the electricity may kill them, treating them kindly, while waiting for the chair.

A cat does no worse with its mouse.

Earth's 1,800,000,000 people are not QUITE CIVILIZED YET.

Further details concerning the massacre of 3,000 Mohammedans by Chinese in Kansu province show that the human race has still some distance to travel.

Of late Mohammedans had been murdering Chinese. Then came famine, most desperate among the Mohammedans, who were invited by Chinese officials to come to Taohow for a conference with promises of roasted barley.

When they came, men from 15 to 30 were separated from the women, taken outside the walls, and 3,000 of them butchered like sheep.

After the famine, the Mohammedans will doubtless murder 10 or 20 Chinese for each Mohammedan killed in the massacre.

So it goes among human beings, most cruel and blood-thirsty of all animals.

In Palestine 160 Jews attended the wedding of an Arab child's nephew. The Bedouin dancers, with Hebrew and Arabic songs, were arranged in honor of the guests.

The Arabs slew a sheep according to Arab custom, offering it to the guests as a sign of friendship.

The Jewish Telegraph agency considers this a hopeful sign of future friendship between Jews and Arabs.

While Bedouins and Jews were singing their songs and eating the sheep, Jacob Cohen, 65 years old, returning from a wedding in Jerusalem, was stabbed to death, without cause, by Arabs that fled and have not been identified.

Bertrand Russell, philosopher, able mathematician, will discuss education with Will Durant, who writes about philosophy.

Mr. Russell says education is a failure. Too few men teach, and too many women teachers make boys effeminate.

That's probably what Mr. Russell's troglodyte ancestor said, when women were telling little boys that they ought not to kill their neighbors and crack open their thighbones to get at the marrow.

American education, says Mr. Russell, is controlled by influential business men and religious sects, whereas it ought to be controlled by "learned men."

Our children are taught "right thinking" instead of plain THINKING.

Also Mr. Russell discovers that America more than any other country "except Tibet, is subject to religious interference with education."

The best thing ever said about education was said by Jaures, killed in Paris at the beginning of the war, in an address to the school teachers of France: "Teach the children to read intelligently and all knowledge will be open to them."

It is easy to teach children to read, not so easy to teach intelligent reading.

Clemenceau has said, "The individual may become like a god but the crowd remains a herd of cattle."

It is true that exceptional individuals, under our own system of education, may become partly educated. The crowd goes along fairly well.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 5:48. Sun rises tomorrow 5:54.

The "best people" are not always those who think they are.

The third wife of a Chicago man is suing him for back alimony. He has asked for time as he was still paying his first wife $750 a month and supporting his fourth wife, Yvonne.

The larger view.

Rivalry carried too far in the newspaper business is an evil which not only sours the cup of journalistic romance but seriously interferes with the economic development of the newspapers of a community, often retarding city progress. We know of communities that are kept in a constant ferment of uncertainty and public quarrels by unreasoning newspaper.

And the lengths to which some ill-advised newspaper men will go to defeat the purposes of a rival enterprise sometimes are as astonishing as they are humiliating. They are astonishing because no good comes to a newspaper or a town from unfair tactics; the unfavorable reactions among common-sense people upon the whole press are always humiliating. "Newspaper knocking" is a common one in business circles, yet we know that only a few publishers are persistent offenders and merit the rebuke.

Be it ever so humble there is no expense like home.

The only time we can believe an automobile salesman is when he tells us the scandalous low price he will allow for the perfectly good car we are trying to trade in on a later model. You have to believe him then.

Dear Fred: Did you ever stop and think of how very little a MAN can do? He doesn't know how to make a lowly bean or cucumber. He can plant seed of all kind, I grant you, but of himself, he can do nothing.

While gifted ones originate, there'll be those who imitate. So, all I ask of ruling Fate—(God maketh all, I can't create)—is help me live my life, estate—With increased power to appreciate.

In days past, when baby persisted in bawling, it was usually because mother was careless with a safety-pin. Nowadays it is usually because of the careless way in which mother is holding her cigarette.

So far this year over two hundred million dollars more have been paid in income taxes than during 1928. Somebody is still making a lot of money and it would be about twice as much more if all who should turn in income taxes did so. Don't think a lot of birds don't evade income taxes, which is just simply silent perjury. We hope no one feels hurt at that true statement.

"Nurse," said an amorous patient, "I'm in love with you. I don't want to get well."

"Cheer up, you won't," she assured him. "The doctor's in love with me, too, and he saw you kiss me this morning."

The word "bank" is about the same in all languages. In some countries it is "banco." Money talks in all languages in every country.

Kind Words For Diamond Dick Inspired By Writer's Death

Prolific Author Of Dime Novels Of Past Lives To See His Product Restored To Respectability By Modern World

Revised estimates of the dime novel, of a former generation are offered by the public as one of the authors of the "Diamond Dick" and "Nick Carter" series, George Charles Jenks, is buried at the age of 79. It is recognized that several writers in turn wrote these stories of adventure, but Mr. Jenks is credited with having produced a substantial number. It is pointed out that many enthusiastic young readers of these thrillers of yesterday have turned out to be fairly successful citizens and this perhaps helps to remove the ancient prejudice. Many books of today, it is suggested, are far more devastating than Jenks' wild tales.

"It is realized now," according to the ROCK ISLAND ARGUS, "that his writings did not demoralize boys. In contrast to the vicious stuff that is now easily obtainable, Jenks' stories were absolutely harmless. They thrilled a former generation of boys and they were entrancingly interesting. Mr. Jenks took to more serious writing later in life and turned out some excellent novels. But his Diamond Dick stories will be remembered by some readers when his more ambitious undertakings are forgotten."

Looking back, the WILLIAMSPORT SUN wonders "if they were dangerous beyond the fact that they were so tempting that they lured many a boy from his chores and caused him to disobey parental edicts against them. Compared with magazines and other publications which are read today, not only by boys, but by their sisters and their parents, they would probably be considered clean, wholesome reading," concludes The Sun. The EVANSVILLE COURIER feels sure that "there was nothing evil in them," that "virtue was rewarded unflinchingly and vice was punished," and that "in their forthright virility they were infinitely better for youth than a lot of the silly sentimental and sexy fiction that fills the land today."

"Once despised by the discriminating and fulminated against from the pulpit," says the CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER, "Nick Carter and his paper-back contemporaries have assumed a certain respectability in these, their later years. The novels that were sold for a dime, and often from under the counter, are now collectors' items, and their first editions bring good prices."

The ROCHESTER EVENING GAZETTE believes that "were Mr. Jenks in the vigor of his art today, his name, in all probability, would be on everyone's lips and in the realm of finance he would be rapidly overtaking Henry Ford, John D. Rockefeller and J. P. Morgan." The Gazette is "convinced that as literature the stories are just as good as the the average western or detective story of the current today."

Search through the attic of many of our best citizens, and you will have turned out remarkably well," asserts the PROVIDENCE BULLETIN, "would reveal more than a five-foot shelf of Jenks' works." That paper points out that "the dauntless quality of Diamond Dick's mind was added marvelous grace and a sense of fair play. Anxious parents overrated his villainy," adds The Bulletin. "In the light of the movies, his fictitious example becomes quite unimpressive. Not for his wickedness should he have been condemned, but for the astounding unreality of his conduct." The MINNEAPOLIS STAR feels sure that "Mr. Jenks had the right idea, even though he was a little ahead of his time." The COLUMBUS OHIO "STATE JOURNAL" holds that while "the current product may be safer than the old-fashioned dime novel, it is doubtful if it surpasses or even equals the quality of the books that enveloped Diamond Dick and Nick Carter."

Quality that was enhanced because they were prescribed in the best social circles."

Less favorable is the attitude of the LONG BEACH PRESS-TELEGRAM, which comments: "Of course, the stories had no literary value. They could not have, being turned out in such wholesale quantities at an average of one story a day. Nor did they have moral value. Their tendency was demoralizing, as were many books which fell into the hands of boys a generation ago—books exploiting fanciful and fictional feats of ruthless gunmen and outlaws."

Similarly the DES MOINES TRIBUNE-CAPITAL voices mild condemnation: "Men now old recall when they used to wonder how any mind could conceive the difficulties and the solutions which came in these stories. The answer is in the negative; no mind could. The writers simply did not use their minds. Most anyone could have written the Frank Merriwell and Nick Carter stories, and as we know, most anyone did. There is to be any credit given, it must go to the one who invented that. It was productive of good tales, if not great stories."

Nick Carter, of course, as interpreted by the PLANT DAILY JOURNAL, "flourished before the day of the super-criminal. He had to do

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

GOLF AND STOCKS

If the use of any modern thing was forgotten at the amateur golf championship held on the Monterey peninsula during the first week in September, I would like to know what it was.

The Talkie-Movie machines were there, telephone booths were located at six different greens, the Press had a tent which looked like the big top of a Ringling-Barnum Circus, modern wash basins and toilets were distributed about the Pebble Beach Course. Radio broadcasted each stroke made by the finalists and to cap the climax, E. F. Hutton & Co., New York brokers having a chain of offices throughout the country pitched a tent enclosing a temporary brokerage office with blackboard and every-thing. Here many members of the golfing fraternity gathered to do a little incidental trading in the stock market when interest in one player or another slackened. Newspapers circulated papers among the thousands composing "gallery," offering papers containing the closing quotations of the New York, Chicago and San Francisco markets.

Next to Golf, the Market was the thing at Del Monte.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

AFTERWARDS

A little woman, with silver hair, sitting alone in her rocking chair; sitting alone in the twilight gloom; done with needle and done with broom.

Done with duty and done with care, And all the pleasures which made life fair.

There is a man who used to be a little boy at that woman's knee. Time was she led him along the street; And watched and guided his eager feet.

But today no need of her hand he feels. He is unafraid of the traffic's wheels.

And there is a woman, tall and true, Who never runs back as she used to do.

For the tender care of those willing hands.

Today she fashions her own head—bald.

That once little girl has grown so wise That she settles herself what doubts arise.

And I think as I walk by her house each day, I too, may be lonely and frail and gray.

For my children must grow, and the time must be When they shall no longer have need of me.

Then I shall dream of the years gone by, When I ran to answer their slightest cry.

Russia's government, establishing the four-day working week, every fifth day a holiday, with no Saturdays or other religious holidays, plans what it calls "a rational eternal calendar."

That new calendar will contain 12 months, each containing six five day weeks. The five days will be called temporarily, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday will go. Five national holidays will make up the 365 days.

In leap year the extra day, called "Industrialization," will be devoted to work.

The arrangement may be rational. It will not be perpetual. Nothing is perpetual in our solar system.

Time passes, earth's changes, the length of the day and the year itself will change. It is for men to adapt themselves to changing conditions until, hundreds of millions of years hence, lack of warm sunshine drives the race away to some other interstellar dwelling place.

Mr. Mussolini would agree with Senator Borah's suggestion.

NOT THAT FELLOW A timekeeper of a negro extra gang on a southern railroad asked a new hand his name. "George Washington, Sir," replied the new man. "You're not the man who cut down the cherry tree, are you?" asked the timekeeper. "No, sir. This is the first work I've done for ovals a year." Conscience is a coward, and those faults it has not strength to prevent, it seldom has justice enough to accuse.—Goldsmith.

Truck On Fire; Damage Small Firemen were summoned to the corner of East Washington and Mercer street at 7:45 a. m. today where the truck of Frank McGarry of the West Washington school extension was on fire. The fire was quickly extinguished and slight damage resulted. A short or ground in the wiring is believed to have started the blaze.

"You are welcome, boy, as a friend of the bees!" murmured the Rose. Blossoms, bees, butterflies—all are partners, you know," Peter was puzzled. "Partners," repeated he. "I don't know quite what you mean. I always supposed partners were people who are in the same business together." The Rose sighed faintly. "Exactly! And the blossoms, bees and butterflies are engaged in the same business—the business of living. We flowers could not get along without the bees, birds and butterflies, nor could they live very long without us. We give the food, and they carry our pollen from plant to plant and so help us to make seed—to grow strong and beautiful!"

"I should say that you were partners," exclaimed Peter. "But tell me, what is pollen and how does the bee carry it from flower to flower?" "Upon his coat, of course," declared a voice, clear as a bell, but for all that rather sharp and disagreeable. Peter was surprised to discover the queenly Lily talking. "You would do far better, boy, to talk to me. I am queen of this garden, but for some reason or other, Rose always takes it upon herself to entertain all the garden's guests by a trick—when by rights all guests should like me best. My family is a great deal more aristocratic than is hers. As a matter of fact, I am of royal blood, while many of the roses on her family bush are running wild. Who brought you into the garden, anyway?"

But Peter didn't answer the haughty Lily, the excitement of his journey, and the quarreling of the flowers had tired him so much that he fell fast asleep while the Queen was talking. As he slept he drifted away into Never-Never Land, where all good little children go when they are tired, leaving his adventures in Animal Land far, far behind him.

Claims Commission Acts Are Illegal Beaver Falls Attorney Assails Public Service Commission Acts In Speech

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., Sept. 28.—Due to the fact that the members of the Public Service Commission are appointed and not elected, creation of that body is unconstitutional and its acts are therefore illegal, Attorney Phillip E. Hamilton, Beaver Falls, charged in an address, here before the Beaver County Federation of Boroughs. He said that the Constitution provided that all laws governing municipalities must be made by elected bodies and not by appointed groups, and in consequence boroughs are not bound to observe laws made by such appointive bodies. He questioned all acts of the commission. The federation condemned the Public Service Commission and is sponsoring a measure which has the abolition of the commission as its purpose. The measure was also further for the holding of the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Federation of Boroughs in Beaver Falls next summer.

Injures Tensils While Preaching

MAHAFFEY, Pa., Sept. 28.—The echo of an evangelistic campaign conducted at Burnside church near her in Feb. of 1928 by Rev. Chas. Donnelly was heard in Pittsburgh today.

The pastor who came from Tennessee asked the Pennsylvania workers' compensation to award him compensation from the Pittsburgh conference of the Methodist Protestant church because he injured his tonsils while preaching. The board barred the plea because it was filed more than a year after the injuries which confined Rev. Donnelly for ten months to his home.

Defeats New Wilmington High School Team On College Field

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 27.—Sultry weather and strategems were not enough to shatter the grim aim of Harrisville high's cridders as they started their season yesterday with a decisive 21-0 triumph over New Wilmington's high school football team at the Westminster college field. Edwards, rugged Harrisville fullback with stinging line crashes and his mate, Dick Hilliard, by consistent kicking amassed all of the visitor's points. Harrisville scored in every quarter except the first.

SEAPLANES READY FOR SERVICE AFTER OVERHAUL OF ENGINES AND PLANES. In order that the navy's air forces may be prepared at all times for any emergency, modern and scientific shops are maintained at North Island, near San Diego, where 400 engines are completely torn down, overhauled, reassembled and tested every year under the direction of Commander Karl F. Smith. Army flying makes intensive demands on motors and planes with its rapid changes of altitude and throttle, and the slightest imperfection in the motor or ship may result in disaster. After approximately every 500 flying hours the ships are overhauled. Above, scenes at the North Island shops.

Wells Drying Up At School Houses

Farmers Are Also Having To Haul Water To Supply Their Cattle

That the country is badly in need of rain is shown by reports coming to County Superintendent of Schools John C. Sylling that many of the wells, connected with school property, are going dry, necessitating the carrying of water long distances. Some of these wells were never known to go dry before.

It is also reported that in many places farmers are being compelled to haul water for their stock, which have heretofore been watered by streams passing through pasture fields. Recent showers have only served to dampen the soil on top.

Raises Peanuts At Fire Station

The saying that we live in a climate where southern products can not be grown seems to be false. Dick McFerry of the Fifth Ward Fire Department has made two attempts to grow two productions of the south which are well known and in both instances has made a success. First he tried growing cotton and in a short time cotton was seen. Following this experiment he tried the growing of peanuts.

He planted several peanut seeds in a pot and as soon as the plant was big enough to be planted he transplanted the peanut plant out in the garden of the department house. This morning McFerry showed the writer peanuts. He has two plants which are full of the southern production. The peanuts are big and number close to 50.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—New York has 14 mayors, including the incumbent of the City Hall. The other 13 are neighborhood borough-mayors who devote as much time and attention to retaining their honorary positions as The Best Dressed One is doing at present to retain the stranglehold on his elective position.

HOBOKEN'S TOUGH LUCK
The good folk of Hoboken, a year or more ago, hailed Chris. Morley, The Litty Feller, for transforming their town into the last Coast of Bohemia. Today they're hating cold, unfeeling remarks in his direction, saying they wish he'd pack the scenery at the Old Bluffs Theater and take his horn-rimmed friends elsewhere.

Revival of "The Black Crook" and "After Dark; or, Neither Mad, Wife nor Widow," was a change in the way of variety. Chris, who both as author and producer has always had a large following of Assorted Nuts, drew his Hoboken audience from both Park Avenue and The Village.

It got to be quite "the thing," after Morley, to troop across the ferry to Morley's rejuvenated barn, either in blue flannel shirt or deep evening dress, buy popcorn balls and all that sort of thing, and sit with your arm around your best girl, munching caramels, laughing, stamping, hissing the villain and otherwise playing sophomoric to your heart's content. After the show your seat coupon was said to entitle you to a seidel of darned-near beer at an adjoining Pilsener Pavilion. —You get the general lack of idea.

The Hobokenites who, in the old days were in the habit of taking ankle excursions to their favorite Beer and Boloney Bazaars, where they got a stein for a Thin One, found, after Morley's advent, the approach of their Lager Lounges on the water front clogged by purling Rolls-Royces with liveried chauffeurs from Park Avenue, and Pray-As-You-Enters, lumbered with Long-Haired Literati from the Village. Those of the natives who managed to shoehorn their way into the bars found that the Morley Boom had jacked the price of beer from 10 cents to half a dollar a scoop.

Meanwhile, Morley kept directing attention to Hoboken in general and the Rialto and the beer stubs in particular, finally attracting the atten-

Harry Kemp, the Tramp Poet, and his Ringmaster are telling it to a Paris judge. Incompatibility of temperament. Both Harry and the Ringmaster are in love with the same person— which is tough.
Harry was recently forced out of ambush in the woods near New York where he was laboring (Kemp fashion) on a novel dealing with what Bill McKnight calls "The Manly Art of Modified Murder." Outside the shack in which he was writing the poem had nailed a sign which read: "Harry Kemp at work. My friends and other intruders not welcome."

Where can you duplicate the style, comfort and convenience of America's finest medium-priced automobile?

When today's Oakland All-American Six was proved by comparison with twenty other cars to be America's finest medium-priced automobile, many of the points in which it displayed superiority were features contributing to style, luxury, convenience and riding ease. Oakland combines a long wheelbase with a short turning radius—and this represents a tremendous advantage. The long wheelbase results in greater riding ease and permits the use of smarter, roomier bodies. The short turning radius gives greater handling ease. Oakland's bodies by Fisher represent another important advantage. Famous for their style leadership, they provide, in addition, such convenience and comfort features as drivers' seats adjustable as you drive, easily-regulated VV windshields and side cowl ventilators. Oakland owners take pride in the style, luxury and convenience of their cars—and in their performance and reliability as well. Come in and let us show you why this is true—and how, on every basis of comparison, today's Oakland is America's finest medium-priced automobile.

Facts Which Prove Oakland Supremacy
The following facts were obtained from a comparison of the Oakland All-American Six with 20 other medium-priced automobiles. All told, 878 individual comparisons were made. Of these, Oakland proved to be distinctly superior in 451 or 51.37 per cent. The 20 cars combined were at best equal to Oakland on 382 or 43.50 per cent. And 13 of the 20 were higher-priced than Oakland.

FISHER BODY
Only Oakland and two other cars in the field offer bodies by Fisher. And one of the two is nearly $100 higher in price than Oakland. Of the 18 cars which have less-known bodies, 11 are priced above the All-American Six.

WHEELBASE
Only one car as low-priced as Oakland has a wheelbase as long as Oakland's, which is 117 inches. That car requires a turning circle to the left of 42 feet as compared with Oakland's 36 feet. Six higher-priced cars have shorter wheelbases.

SPRING COVERS
Only Oakland in the entire field is equipped with spring covers, according to our data, which cover 19 of the 20 cars included in the field.

FOOT-CONTROLLED HEADLIGHTS
Only Oakland and one other car in the field offer this convenience. And the second car costs more than Oakland. Eleven more expensive cars fail to provide it.

CROSS-FLOW RADIATOR
Only Oakland in the entire field has the Cross-Flow Radiator or anything similar to it. All other cars use the down-flow radiator, this despite the fact that 13 of the 20 are higher-priced.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Backward Child In School Should Visit Psychologist

To many a backward child going to school has very little fun. He rarely has success at his lessons. Now everyone enjoys most what he does best and enjoys least what he does worst.

DR. MYERS

What a discouragement must be met by the child who every day and every hour at school finds himself a failure! Just imagine your self trudging off to school, knowing you are not going to be able to answer the questions which will be asked you in the recitation, not going to be able to do the problems set for you to do while other children are going to do them easily and quickly and are going to have to wait while you work and worry in confusion, they thinking all the while what a "dumbbell" you are.

We are not born equal in ability to learn. Even within the same family one child may learn with great speed and ease while another may learn with slowness and great difficulty. But people do not fall into two great classes, genius and dullards. There are all degrees of brightness, which is to say that there are all degrees of dullness. We parents generally call a child backward who cannot keep up in his work at school, who lags one or several grades behind.

He may be brighter than we think he is; he may be duller. We parents rarely are good judges of his degree of native intelligence. The school psychologist where there is one, should be able to give us pretty accurate information. In many of the best school systems there are special classes for those children who are two or three years behind their grade.

If your school has no psychologist, get in touch with the nearest university or college and call upon a psychologist there. Sometimes such services are given free. Never is the fee very large. Don't waste your time and money on a quack. Usually your teacher can tell you a good deal about the child's learning troubles. It is well to keep in very close touch with her. Teachers, and even psychologists can, of course, make mistakes labelling the child duller than he really is. But if they both find the child low in ability to learn you will be pretty safe in accepting their advice.

Of course, it is not easy for a parent of average or superior intelligence to believe his child is by nature dull. He is more likely to accuse the child of laziness and the teacher of incompetence. Some such parents forever torment the slow child, making life miserable for him, and eternally bound the teacher, imposing on her time and patience.

No parent or teacher can put new cells into the child's head, nor create a new brain for him. All anyone can do is to help the child develop what he has.

Most teachers, indeed, expect slow children to do more than they are able to do. Only very gradually is the school making the work easy enough for the backward child. An occasional skillful teacher with one or several very dull children in her class sets them at work simple enough for them to enjoy success. To such a child of the fourth grade, for example, may be given second grade spelling, reading or arithmetic if that child can do well at things no more difficult. She encourages the child, helps him to succeed and helps him to celebrate successes. Fortunate the backward child with such a teacher. Doubly fortunate if he has parents who are as considerate and wise in dealing with him at home, who do not charge him with laziness and indifference, who do not compare him with a brighter child, who give him tasks at home at which he can succeed, who make the child feel he has a worthy place in the family, contributing his honest portion.

Lehigh Ready For Game At Ellwood

Championship Of County At Stake As Contenders Go To Battle

Lehigh Cement muckballers of New Castle will go to Ellwood City this afternoon and there oppose the strong Tube Mill outfit for the first Lawrence county muckball championship. The game has been called for 4 o'clock, daylight time, at the Sving Park ball field.

Lehigh, champions of New Castle, and the Tubers, Ellwood City's best, have already opposed each other twice. Lehigh chalked the first up as a victory for their side but the Tube Mill lads held them in check the last time and kept them from clinching the title.

All doubt as to which is the county's best will be settled this afternoon.

St. Ives Revives Sunday Blue Laws

(International News Service) ST. IVES, Cornwall, Sept. 28.—The war on violators of St. Ives' strict Sabbatharian laws, the revival of which recently has thrown this picturesque Cornish fishing village into throes of religious fervor, has been carried to such lengths that on Sunday just passed a crowd of fishermen hurled rocks from the quay at a pleasure party happening to pass in a motorboat.

Artists who set up their easels to do a bit of sketching were forced to pack up their kits and return to their hotels and no boat of any kind was allowed to enter or leave the harbor.

"The 'Keep the Sabbath' movement was recently revived among the pious Cornish folk by an itinerant preacher who exhorted his hearers to follow most strictly the Old Testament injunction against doing any gainful labor on the Lord's Day. So literally have the St. Ives folk taken their preacher's words that people have been advised to stop playing their gramophones on Sunday, the few moving picture shows in town have been closed and even hotel keepers have been warned that if they're caught doing any 'fancy cooking' for their guests they will be ducked in the bay.

Nowhere else in the world can you find what these new cars offer

THE new Cadillacs, La Salles and Fleetwoods presented last week are new models from end to end, inside and out. They offer, however, something far more than mere newness. In sum total they represent an actual far-reaching achievement in engineering, body designing and valuing.

To say that Cadillac has surpassed itself is to say that there is literally nothing in the highest field of motoring with which to compare them.

Offered at a lower and wider price range for every one of the 50 new body styles they vastly extend the Cadillac-La Salle-Fleetwood market.

If you have not already inspected these new cars, be prepared for the most beautiful examples of body designing that have ever left the Fisher-Fleetwood studios. Be prepared for larger, roomier, and still more comfortable interiors, lavishly and luxuriously finished and appointed.

Be prepared, when you take the wheel, for a more flexible V-type, 8-cylinder engine delivering still greater power.

And above all, be prepared for new driving and handling ease that will prove nothing less than a revelation.

A wealth of features, improvements and refinements, clamor for inspection and a driving test. Take advantage of the opportunity that is gladly given you to drive these cars in traffic and on the road. Then draw your own conclusions.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list price when comparing automobile values. Cadillac-La Salle delivered prices include only reasonable charges for delivery and financing.

Foster's Weather Forecast

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Mild storm wave expected to cross continent during week centering on 30 is expected to be a cold storm center north and south; as this storm center approaches your vicinity a period of lower average temperatures and increasing precipitation will be in evidence over the entire continent.

During the two years Rev. Sleppy has been pastor of the Mahoning church, Miss Royal has been a frequent guest at the Sleppy home and is acquainted here. The ceremony was to take place at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents.

October Cropweather Features.
During October, area of heaviest precipitation will move eastward to the Atlantic coast states; while a decrease will be expected over all the continent east of the Rockies excepting the Atlantic coast states, the month will be expected to average above normal precipitation near meridian 90 where heaviest precipitation of September was expected and believe received. Moderate storm waves expected to center on 3, 10 and 30 will each be followed by a cold wave that will be expected to reach northern line of cotton belt. Mild storms centering on 17 and 25. Temperatures of month will average a little below normal for the continent; east coast states below normal, eastern Great Central valleys below normal, western Great Central valleys and west of Rockies about to a little above normal. Warmest period of month expected to center on 19, lowest temperature near 31, 3 and 23, in the order as named. Most precipitation expected near 3, 10 and 30. First ten and last three days of month will average more than usual storm force and precipitation, but no severe nor dangerous storms will be expected. Best outdoor period of month from 14 to 20, a period that should afford some (finishing to fall) work that may be left over. The month is expected to average one of moderate extremes excepting those periods near storm centers of 3 and 20.

J. M. McKay in his C. P. agricultural report dated September 8, 1920, says: "One farmer on Indian Head division (just east of Regina) reports 270 acres of Reward wheat yielded 15 bushels per acre, grade one, weight 58 pounds, growth with less than three inches of rain from seeding to harvest. This may have resulted from a combination of many circumstances but I would venture to state the principal causes are: Exceptional wheat land, a farmer who knows how to farm and proper kind and quality of wheat seed. There are millions of acres in North America that would not have held the moisture to make this yield. Saskatchewan should tell this to California, Brisbane, Florida and other big agricultural provinces. Canadian farmers should find out about the Reward wheat and what it will do on their land. No doubt the department of agriculture at Regina, Sask., Canada would give the desired information. During the next few years we will need to know every circumstance toward profitable yields."

Washington Is Fearing Scandal

Political Washington In Turmoil Over Impending "Wet" Dinner Probe

BROOKHART MAY GIVE TESTIMONY

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—A scandal of the first magnitude is feared by political Washington if Senator Brookhart, R.-Iowa, tells a grand jury about a "wet" dinner given senators by a Wall Street broker named Fane.

District Attorney Leo Rover, among the district officials named by President Hoover in his reply to Senator Howell (D), Nebraska, as being responsible for enforcement conditions here, announced he would be "very glad" to have Brookhart tell what he knows about "larks under the tables."

The whole rumpus over whether the capital is very wet or not was started by Howell and Brookhart who took up cudgils after President Hoover rebuffed Howell. Brookhart startled the senate a few days ago when he asked Senator Smoot (R), Utah, if when he attended the dinner a year ago, he sat at the "wet" tables. Smoot couldn't remember at first that he attended and denied he had ever seen a bootlegger or booze there.

Brookhart has expressed his willingness to go before the grand jury. Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of Virginia who appears to have assumed the leadership of the dry forces, entered the arena. In a statement Cannon demanded that congress enact legislation to make the capital a model in prohibition enforcement for the country, as President Hoover declared in his reply to Howell.

On the other hand, the Rev. Deets Pickett, editorial director for the Methodist Board of Temperance and Social Service, which Cannon heads, defended conditions here from Eagle Grove, Ia., where he is visiting, according to word reaching here.

The "Fane dinner" was given to newly elected and old members of the senate at the Willard Hotel and Brookhart in his senate speech took

District Attorney Rover to ask because nothing had been done about the flow of booze there. He also attacked Rover and the prohibition authorities for not raiding the Carlton club in the Carlton hotel, frequented he said, by diplomats and officials where liquor was sold.

Brookhart although willing to go before the grand jury said he did not think he should be called upon to initiate action by making a formal complaint as suggested by Rover. If he had any complaint to make, he said it would be directed at Rover for failure to do his duty.

The TOWN DOCTOR

(The Doctor of Towns)

Says:

TO THE MERCHANTS OF NEW CASTLE A few years ago the people of New Castle and surrounding territory HAD to buy from you, or go without. As you know only too well that is not now the case. Good trade and motor cars, magazines, metropolitan papers and radio, plus free mail delivery, has changed all that.

Today people can get anything they need or want, from whom and where they please - not only can, but do. They can get it from you, but whether they do or do not depends on you.

In practically every community we hear: "Outside advertising is enticing our people" - "Competition of combines is taking our business". May be this is true, but what are you doing to counteract it?

As an excuse and alibi for lack of business, thousands of merchants say, "People don't buy like they used to". That is absolutely true - people don't buy as they used to.

Buy how about you - do you still sell "like you used to"? Why should people stick to the old, humdrum, weekly "trading" when shopping and buying are now made such a pleasure? Why go to a funeral when a festival is on?

If other stores invite the people and give them a reason why they should buy from them, of course your customers are going to accept the invitation at least once. Then, if those extending the invitation sell and serve as today's buyers like to be sold and served, they will continue to accept the repeated invitation. You would do it yourself under similar circumstances.

Still, the average man and woman, by far the majority of the people in New Castle, would rather do business with you, and they will do business with you if you will profit by the experience of others. That is not idle talk, but a fact based on human nature, backed up by actual proof obtained from the people themselves in every section of the country. But, you must have a "reason why" and that reason must be kept before all of the people all of the time.

Say to yourself, "Why do people buy elsewhere?" Ask yourself, "Why should the people of New Castle buy from me what I have to sell, in preference to my competitor?"

Answer both of these questions - they must be answered not only to yourself, but to your customers if you are going to continue in business and keep out of the red.

Business goes to the place where it is invited - you can't expect business if you don't ask for it.

Business stays at the place where it is well treated, backed up with an invitation to continue the pleasure of such treatment.

Business comes back to the place where it is served best and where the invitation to profit from such service is kept constantly in the forefront.

Your newspaper is your ally - use it.

Sewing Work At Mission Resumes

Ladies' And Girls' Classes Organize To Mend Children's Clothes

A ripping bee meeting featured the first meeting of the Dorcas sewing class of the City Rescue Mission, when it met this week. Fifteen were present and participated in the contest during which old clothes were taken apart to be cleaned and remade into children's clothing.

The class will meet each Thursday afternoon hereafter and if there are ladies who desire to give of their time and service to the work that is being done, Superintendent B. J. Watkins bids them a cordial welcome.

Girls sewing classes of the mission which are conducted annually will resume for the fall and winter on October 5 at 2 o'clock. One hour is spent in devotion and the other in sewing work.

A need for sewing machines arises as the sewing classes get under way. With a larger number of women volunteering their services this year the work cannot be done so effectively as if another machine could be operated.

Pulaski Man Has Unusual Hobby

Alex Robertson of Pulaski Pa., has in his possession a beautiful collection of many varieties of rare butterflies. Mr. Robertson has collected butterflies for about 40 years as a hobby and during that time he has come across some very remarkable specimens. He secured some of the butterflies from missionaries in Africa, Brazil and other countries.

According to Mr. Robertson, many people cannot believe that the colors on the butterflies are genuine and many ask if the mounted butterflies are painted.

A group of 15 brilliant and rare butterflies were mounted and framed by Mr. Robertson and will be on display at The News office for a few days.

I have seen that man move over with each new generation into a bigger body, more alive, more reverent and more free than he has had before. -Gerald Stanley Lee.

Testimony In Plumbing Case Not Completed

the roof when the inspector had come on the job and had not seen the inspector, nor had he seen the inspector. It had been inspected without water and the inspector's stick was on the work indicating it was approved when he came down.

Asked what he had then done, he stated he had filled it with water and found a sandhole in one of the fittings. He said it would be impossible to discover such a hole without the water. He also said that it occurs in plumbing fittings.

On cross-examination by counsel for Stevenson, Kennedy stated this was the only instance that he could specifically recall. He stated that the plugs were in the openings and that this might have caused the oversight of the inspector in not knowing that there was no water in the pipes. He admitted that he had not called the attention of the inspector to the lack of water. He also admitted that he had not filled it with water until after the inspector had passed on the work. He could not recall any tests asked that were not made and admitted that the tests were as much the duty of the plumber as the inspector.

At this point Councilman Walter V. Tyler inquired whether it was the general practice to open the plugs to determine whether or not the water was there.

"Sometimes," was the reply of Mr. Kennedy, "for the lines are filled until they flow over the roof. If there are no leaks, everything is supposed to be all right."

Worked On Hospital.

J. W. Trent, journeyman plumber, was the next witness examined. He stated that he had been employed as a journeyman on the Jameson Memorial hospital job, the contract of which the R. T. Withers Sons company had.

"Did you ever see Mr. Stevenson on the job," he was asked.

"I did," he replied.

He admitted that he had been instructed to install materials in violation of the plumbing code.

He stated that he had called the attention of Mr. Pyle, superintendent of the job for the Withers company, to numerous installations in violation of the code and that Mr. Pyle had said "That's all right, we can get away with that."

"When did these violations occur?" he was asked.

"The first day we started to work," answered Mr. Trent. "When we were doing the work in the basement, we installed two-inch pipe when the code does not permit anything less than three-inch pipe, also fittings that are not permitted."

"What part was inspected by Mr. Stevenson?" was asked.

"About two-thirds of the basement work," was his reply.

"Was there any other violations of the code that you noticed?" inquired Attorney Brahm.

"Yes," replied Trent, "there were numerous instances of violation of the code, in the use of T's on horizontal lines, side outlets to closets and one in particular of the use of an 'L' 1 1/2 inches in size from a 1 1/4-inch opening."

"Is there any reason for the use of a T instead of a Y?"

"Yes, the T is cheaper."

"Was the T's permissible under the code?"

"No, they are not permissible. A waste fixture is not permitted to enter a vent."

Mr. Trent also said outlets to carry the waste water of bath tubs were made contrary to the regulations.

He stated that the installations as made were approved by the plumbing inspector. He said that there were series of roughing jobs in which there was no vent in the basement. He said he knew of three openings on a two-inch line without a vent, when a vent is required for each opening. As he remembered this instance, the openings were for a sink, a chemical laboratory and a lavatory.

There were closets on the second, third and fourth floor, he stated, where there was no vent until the last one and that was an 'L' not according to the code.

There was a toilet room on the first floor from which the vent was removed 40 feet and went in a four-inch stack.

He said that all waste was connected directly with the sanitary system, while the code requires that all appliances such as these washers are required to be connected with a connection to the main and indirectly with the sanitary system. This is to eliminate all possible unsealing of the trap by evaporation or pressure. The sterilizers are also hooked up, he said, directly with the sanitary system with only a valve gate between them. All these things, he said, were incorrect yet they had been approved by the plumbing inspector.

Remove Violations.

Asked if any of the fittings in violation of the code had been removed, Trent said that practically all of them had been, although there were still some there.

"How long did it take and how many men were employed in making these changes," he was asked.

"It took four weeks and six men were employed all the time and sometimes seven," said Mr. Trent.

He said he knew of an inspection by two men from Erie and one from Pittsburgh and that nothing had been removed prior to that.

Trent alleged that he had talked with Stevenson one time, questioning how he could check up on the work. He said he had helped Stevenson put on some of the stickers. He said Stevenson had said he had no plan.

Trent alleged that he had asked Stevenson about the board of health when he registered here. Stevenson had asked him where he could get certain information relative to the board of health and Trent claimed he referred him to the state board at Harrisburg.

On cross-examination, Trent said that he had been here two years last January, that he had worked first for the Clark company, then he went to the Withers company and that with the Withers company and that he had come here from Johnstown, Pa. He had worked at his trade there and elsewhere since 1900. He had never been in business there for himself.

He admitted that he had known of violations in the installation at the Jameson hospital. Charles Pyle, the foreman, he said, had told him to go ahead.

He had gone ahead, he said. Stevenson did not know this, he admitted. He said, however, that Stevenson should have known it when he got on the job.

"Do you know that he knew?" was the question asked.

"I don't know what was in the man's mind," was the rejoinder of Trent.

"Did you ever inform Stevenson of the violations?"

"No, Sir, I did not," replied Trent.

"Did you ever hear any one else do so?"

"Yes, Sir," said Trent. "I heard Paul Griffith do so in my presence."

Correct Violations.

Trent admitted that practically all the violations had been corrected but claimed he did not know who had required it.

"It might have been you," he retorted to Attorney Wallace.

Trent acknowledged that the foreman had directed the work in violation of the code to be done and that some person had been unfairly used in this being done.

Trent said in reply to questions that he had not been on the job until it was completed. He had worked on the corrections made, and at that time, he said, the job had not been completed.

"Did not Mr. Stevenson tell you he had a plan of the job in his office?" Trent was asked.

"He did not prior to the change of the work."

He also stated that he had worked at the George Washington junior high school for the Withers company. He had worked there ten weeks and there was plumbing there not according to the code, he stated.

He said there were several drinking fountains on the same line with but one trap and it was four feet under the floor and inaccessible. He said the momentum of waste water from the fountains would unseat the trap and allow the escape of sewage. Each fountain should have a trap, he stated. He said he had seen the traps in that building improperly constructed.

Trent stated that he had not been there when the inspections were made but that stickers on the work indicated they had been inspected and passed.

He stated that there had been a lot of that work taken out, but he had no knowledge of who had ordered it done.

Trent insisted on questioning that the waste water from the drinking fountains would unseat the trap and create an unsanitary condition.

He was asked if he knew that there was no requirement in the code concerning the method of installing drinking fountains. He rather insisted that there was and his counsel read a section which he interpreted to cover this, although drinking fountains were not specifically mentioned.

There was some altercation at this point between the opposing counsel.

Trent stated that there were four drinking fountains and two floor drains connected with one line.

The attorney for the plumbers then offered two sections of the code as evidence at this point, section 24, stating that no steam or exhaust vents, tanks or water supply, and section 39, stating that no brick or sheet metal lines shall serve as a ventilator.

Paul Griffiths

Paul Griffith was then called as a witness, stating that he was a journeyman plumber of this city. He was asked if he knew anything concerning the plumbing in the Neisner Bros. store. He said he did.

He said he had seen a "Y" used on vertical lines in the cellar, also a trap in the second floor drain that was contrary to the plumbing code.

Mr. Griffith also told of other violations on the Neisner job, such as an iron pipe in an open sink at the fountain and an underground catch basin in the cellar to which was not vented. He said that the plumbing system, he said, and there was an odor.

He was cross-examined at some length and maintained his stand in regard to the alleged violations on the Neisner job. When asked if he denied that this was a roughing job, Mr. Griffith said he did, but that the code made no difference between a job of this kind and a new job.

Frank Crabb, foreman on the Hotel Castleton job testified concerning waste and vent lines in the bathrooms. It was alleged the plumbing was wrong. It was charged there were no waste lines from lavatories vents to allow the air to escape. He said he had received instructions from his employer to do the work in the manner. The work in the 118 rooms were inspected it was testified and stickers of the inspector were placed on the work.

On cross examination he said he did not know if any changes had been made and on direct examination said that it would be a matter as would be obvious to a man skilled in plumbing.

Stevenson Called

Mr. Stevenson, the inspector was called. On direct examination by attorneys for the complainants he said he was familiar with the dispute between the city and Withers which went to the supreme court and knew of the court order sustaining the local court and directing the work to be reinstalled.

"Did you have it installed?"

"Yes,"

"When did you do it?"

"Sometime last year."

"Who made the changes?"

"Withers company."

"Did you inspect a beauty parlor at 117 North Mill street where work had been installed by the Stevenson company, and didn't you approve installation of galvanized iron waste pipes?"

"Yes."

"Did you not inspect and approve Pa. He had worked at his trade there plumbing at the Gulf Refining company on South Mill street where Withers installed galvanized iron pipe."

"I never heard of the job."

"Do you know of it now?"

"No."

"When you were acquainted with this proceeding didn't you investigate?"

"Not yet, no."

Stevenson's attorney told the court that "We were only acquainted with the proceeding yesterday morning at 10 a. m."

"Tell us whether or not it is proper to install S traps in old repair work," prompted the complainant's attorney.

"It is against the code."

It was explained that siphonage may occur.

Stevenson said he had not allowed them.

"Did you allow an S trap at 467 East Washington street?"

"No, I have never allowed them to the best of my knowledge."

"What about 1111 South Mercer street? Did you allow installation of S traps?"

"No, I never heard of it."

"Was it called to your attention?"

"No."

"Was 467 East Washington street?"

"No."

"What about the Isaly job drainage on East Washington street? Didn't you allow S traps there?"

"I never inspected a job there."

"Was your attention called?"

"No."

"What about the use of putty joints in installing closets?"

"Yes."

"Contrary to the code?"

"Yes. It makes a good job if you do not put the peppermint test on it."

"It is against the code to allow water closets to be installed in a room which has no connection with external air."

"Yes," replied Stevenson, "according to the code but there are lots of places where you cannot comply with the code."

"How about the Welcome Inn. You allowed it?"

"Possibly. I do not remember."

"And in the Neisner building you allowed it."

"Yes. You take your home and it is closed five months in a year. The code is wrong," Stevenson meant that the window is generally down during winter."

"It would be obnoxious in the summer time."

"Yes when the temperature is high and also if the window is shut."

"In an apartment near the Thaddeus Stevenson you allowed four bathrooms to be put in that way."

"Probably I inspected it, but would you deprive them of a bathroom?" asked Stevenson of the complainant's attorney.

Can't Forbid Bathroom

He said: "If I am retained I will do it again as it would be unfair to the people to deprive them of a bathroom."

Evidently the attorney and Stevenson referred to closets but the term bathroom was mentioned.

"Your attention was called to an open sewer at 467 County Line street?"

"I think so."

"There was a condition of a bad odor there?"

"Someone tapped a hole in the sewer. I wrote him and ordered it repaired. I forgot it and never went back."

The attorney agreed it was dangerous to health.

"Is it your contention you have no authority to supervise water and gas fixtures?"

"They are not part of the sanitary system. It has nothing to do with it."

"At the Kroger place, East Washington street, isn't it a fact you approved waste lines from counters and refrigerators without any traps?"

"Yes. I told them to change it and to put in a trap at the front. I don't know if it has been changed or not."

"Did you not compel the Withers company to take out a galvanized pipe at the Almira home?"

"I suppose I did if he says so."

A building on North street, which was not mentioned specifically drew an explanation from Stevenson that "You could not do anything without impairing the building."

"Is galvanized iron cheaper or more expensive?"

"I am not familiar with the price."

Beal Testifies.

Jess Beal was called.

He said he had read of the city vs Withers case and testified the bath traps had not been changed. He said four are visible. Washstands, he testified, have no ventilated traps. He said the bathtubs are of standard lead, contrary to code.

"What is the importance of having traps?"

"Siphonage to carry off gas and long life of the pipe."

The attorney for Stevenson cross-examined the witness.

"Where in the work after the changes were made did it not comply with the order of the court?"

"Not put in according to the code."

"Did the order of court make provision on that?"

"It should be installed accordingly."

"Did you ever read the order?"

"No, I heard of it."

He said the code required extra heavy traps. Beal testified he tapped the lead trap spoken of with a knife.

Beal maintained the bathtubs were not trapped. He said the ventilators for the trap should be placed off the crown of the trap.

He said he did not call Stevenson's attention to it.

"Then you don't know that he knows of the condition?"

"I heard him testify he inspected the job."

"Before or after your inspection?"

Frank Streib, journeyman, was next called.

He said he was with Beal when he went to the Withers block. He testified the plumbing had not been put in according to code. He said the traps had not been removed from beneath the tubs. He said they were of a standard weight and had no vents.

On cross-examination he said he never read the court order and he was testifying of what was not in compliance with the code of plumbing and not the court order.

Whitla Called.

Robert Whitla was called.

He said he had conversations at various times with the inspector concerning Stevenson's interpretation of the plumbing law.

"What did he say?"

"He told me that by a ruling of the city solicitor he had the authority to make any change in the code that he (the inspector) deemed best."

Whitla said he reported several infractions.

"Tell us if you visited the D. J. Watkins home."

"I did."

Whitla said the condition is the same now as about five months ago when it was complained of. He has, some cement in exposed pipe along the floor. He said the length exposed extends from the rear to the front.

Whitla testified Watkins called him and complained of an odor. Whitla discovered the conditions, he said, and remarked to Watkins it was a matter for the inspector. He called him while I was there. Whitla said the inspector had told him he had written the owner of the property and said a change should be made or Stevenson would prosecute. He declared the situation unchanged.

"Were you compelled to take out galvanized pipe?"

"I was at the Almira home."

"Do you know of these other places?"

"I know of one."

It was explained that the Gulf Refining work installed by Withers was put in three years ago as new work.

He said he had called attention to S traps, 111 South Mercer, and Isaly in East Washington street.

Whitla explained the difference between the S traps and the code trap. He believed a code trap better and said it was more costly. He said he did not report installation of S traps by the Stevenson firm because the inspector did not take action one once he did report.

The attorney for the inspector took the witness.

"You do not know anything about the cases you did not report?"

"No."

The inspector's attorney was told that "He made me make a change."

"Was it in violation of the code?"

"Yes, I put it in."

"In violation of the local ordinance and you knew it?"

"Yes."

"You had to change a closet at 316 Sheridan avenue?"

"Yes."

"But not until after an information was made against you?"

"We were not notified."

"Do you think that final air of peppermint test should be made in all cases?"

"Yes."

Need Final Inspection

"No, I think there should be a final inspection," said Whitla.

"You know it requires it?"

"Yes."

"You never asked for it."

"Nothing beyond my plans."

"You have installed a great many closet bowls with putty system."

"Yes."

"You consider that a good sanitary job?"

"No."

"Why don't you?"

"I learned my competitors were not doing it. I took it up with him."

"You have used the putty system?"

"Yes."

The attorneys for the petitioners took over their witness.

"You had no information Stevenson objected to the installation of the

NICARAGUAN MISS ATTENDS SCHOOL

Left to right, Rosa Estrada, Maria Solorzano, Emilia Wheelock. Senorita Maria Solorzano, daughter of former President Solorzano, of Nicaragua, recently came to the United States to attend school in California. With her came two other Nicaraguan señoritas, Rosa Estrada, daughter of a pioneer Nicaraguan family, and Senorita Emilia Wheelock, whose father is an Englishman, but who, through some odd quirk of Nicaraguan law, is herself a Nicaraguan.

"You know that prior to the meeting a month ago you only had one application for a license?"

He said he was sure only of one.

"No necessity of calling meetings unless there are examinations?"

"No."

"You get $5 a day?"

"There are two of us," he testified.

"That costs $10 each month," suggested Stevenson's attorney, meaning if a meeting is called each month.

He admitted that and also admitted that if there are no licenses asked for examinations it would be unnecessary for a meeting.

Brahm rested his case after he had taken the witness and asked if Haines had assisted in the last examination and received an affirmative answer.

Stevenson Again

Inspector Stevenson was called as the first witness in his defense and in substance his answers to questions from his counsel follow.

He was appointed about seven years ago and said he had served continuously, had 35 years experience in plumbing and had formerly been in partnership with a brother, Jim, and later with C. F. and H. E. Stevenson, which had continued until two years ago.

"Since that time I have not had a penny's interest in the business, and since I came into office have had no part in its management nor participated in it. I have not attempted to procure work for the Stevenson Company or H. E. Stevenson."

Referring to the Woods job at the tin mill, the inspector said he did not inform Harold Stevenson about the job and never knew about it being done until he inspected it. "I never notified him of this or any other job," he was referred to 1203 Moravia street work done by Ed. Masters.

"You call that to the attention of Harold?" his attorney asked. "I never called any job by word, thought or deed to his attention," the inspector stated.

Some Changes Made

In regard to the Jameson hospital he stated he had made a final test and said there had been some changes made at his direction. He said all he had ordered changed had been changed.

"State whether or not this work was completed in accordance with the plumbing code."

"I'll say it was, and it is one of the best jobs in Pennsylvania," he replied.

"Was there any final air of peppermint test made?"

"No."

"State if the test has ever been made since the inspection."

"I don't know of it being made."

"Have you received a request for the air of peppermint tests?"

"No."

"Have you received notice from any other person?"

"No."

"From architect or owner?"

NOTE: KERENSKY HAD BEEN MINISTER OF JUSTICE IN THE LYOFF CABINET.

ALEXANDER KERENSKY.

SO QUICKLY DID THE SOVIETS GAIN THE ASCENDANCY IN RUSSIA THAT BY JUNE, 1917, THE CONSERVATIVE MEMBERS OF THE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT HAD BEEN FORCED OUT AND THEIR PLACES TAKEN BY SOCIALISTS. HOWEVER, KERENSKY, THE PREMIER, STILL STOOD FOR THE ALLIES AND WAS OPPOSED TO RUSSIA MAKING A SEPARATE PEACE.

THE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT PLANNED TO MAKE A NEW OFFENSIVE AGAINST THE AUSTRIANS. KERENSKY, DRESSED IN A PRIVATE'S UNIFORM, TOURS THE FRONT AND ATTEMPTED TO RESTORE THE FIGHTING SPIRIT OF THE RUSSIAN SOLDIERS WITH HIS ELOQUENT ORATORY. THE ALLIES LOOKED ON HOPEFULLY.

IN JULY (1917), THE RUSSIAN ARMY, LED BY GENERAL KORNILOFF, ATTACKED THE AUSTRIAN FORCES IN GALICIA. BUT THE DISCIPLINE AND MORALE OF THE RUSSIAN TROOPS SOON PROVED TO HAVE BEEN THOROUGHLY UNDERMINED BY BOLSHEVIST PROPAGANDA AND, AFTER A FEW INITIAL SUCCESSES, KORNILOFF'S ARMY WAS BADLY BEATEN.

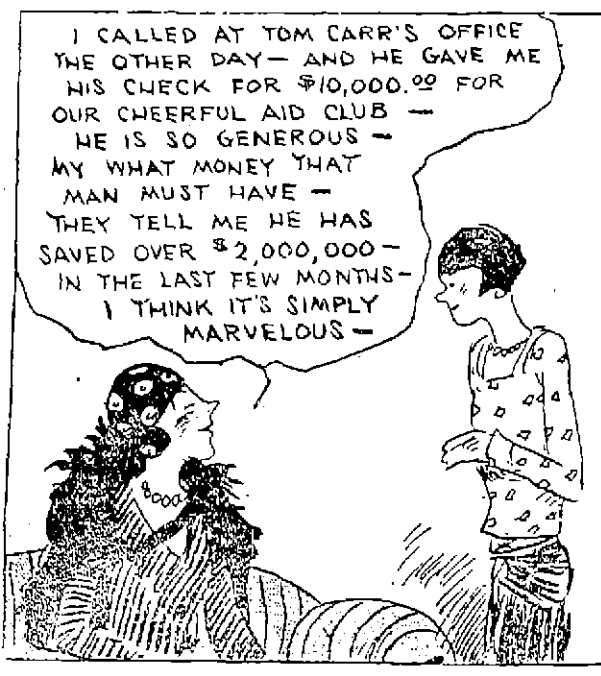

THE CAMPAIGN ENDED IN A DISORDERLY ROUT AND, TO KEEP THE ARMY FROM COMPLETELY DISINTEGRATING, THE RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT WAS OBLIGED TO ORDER A RETREAT ALL ALONG THE LINE. FROM THAT TIME ON, THE KERENSKY GOVERNMENT GREW WEAKER, AND RUSSIA CEASED TO BE AN IMPORTANT FACTOR IN THE WAR. CONTINUED MONDAY.

Hope To Lure Herr Schmeling To U. S.

Germany's Fistic King Picked

MAY COLLECT HALF MILLION FOR BOUT

By DAVID L. WALSH
International News Service, Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Having discovered the other evening that the only fighter who really loses is a fighter who isn't present when the help is paid, the Herr Schmeling is soon to emerge from his hiding place under the sauerkraut and rejoin the situation before somebody gives the heavy-weight title away for ten profit-sharing soap wrappers. The Herr Schmeling left us in a dudgeon some time ago, vowing never to return, but that was before Sharkey, slapped Loughran blue-footed the other evening, causing the Reilly-Jacobs-McCarney team to decide on their new watchword: Out of the sauerkraut by Christmas.

They figure on digging him out within a month, as a matter of fact, and the Herr Jacobs is to be dispatched next week to Germany with some of the best sauerkraut diggers of modern times.

Lure—Good U. S. Gold.
The answer is that there is a half million dollars waiting for Schmeling here in a Sharkey fight, if they ever can get him unwound from the red tape of the multifarious difficulties. This might not turn out to be one of the grapes of the generation, but only a champ would deny that today it stands as the light of the year. They could pay-off with the Muldoon-Tunney trophy (on this one without asking for a further report from the sub-committee on public morals and the half-million it would draw would give the Garden its first real winner since the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Chicago.)

This fight looks so "natural" that it could be laid out by an undertaker and still live.

Has International Color.
Sharkey has been built up bigger than a patrolman's foot with his three-round knockout of Loughran on Thursday night. He has Mr. Muldoon's approval as the American champion and as for John J. Saps-in-the-Street, scion of the socially prominent Saps-in-the-Street, the Sharkey gent can have the world's title and welcome. There is, in fact, only one man they figure belongs in the same ball park and that man is the Herr Schmeling. When they get that way about an idea, the only thing to do is to lock the gates and refuse to sell any more tickets. You have in brief a killing.

The Garden spent all day yesterday trying to connive its way into another series of eliminations, just to be sure that no mistake was made in this first series. Actually, however, they were after some haircut money with these, meant the saving Sharkey and Schmeling for the clean up position in the batting order.

Sharkey, American Champ.
But the Herr Muldoon, being a man with the finer instincts of this life, spoiled everything by blandly announcing that everybody has already been eliminated except Sharkey, Schmeling and Scott. Scott? Where have I heard that name before? It must have been that time I became confused while looking for a vacant elevator shaft and wandered into the boxing commission office by mistake.

Yes, the Herr Scott is very much "in" and he will stay there until they catch him in a run-down play between the bases and finally tag him out. This is the best of course, but he is particularly about who does it. The Garden offered him Maloney, Von Poma or Griffiths yesterday and he sneered almost brutally. There is no money in being tagged by that kind so it looks as though Schmeling is elected. He was "it" the last time they were playing, anyhow.

PLAY BY PLAY ACCOUNT OF NEW CASTLE-RAYEN GAME

covery. Hannon made five yards through tackle and end.
McIntosh made five yards through tackle and Alexander made a first down through the line. McIntosh fumbled for a two yard loss but held the ball. Then came one of those thrills that make football worth while. McAuley stepped back for a forward pass which was made perfectly and received the same by Alexander. The big boy had about six yards to make the goal line. He was tackled and thrown out of bounds hardly more than half a yard from the line. McIntosh advanced the ball until it nearly touched the chalk line and then punched it over on the next play. The try for the additional point failed. As Farrar kicked off to Hannon who caught it on the ten yard line, the half was over with New Castle leading by a score of 12-0.

THIRD QUARTER

The teams lined up for the second half, with New Castle kicking off. McIntosh kicked to Hubbard who returned it to the 37 yard line. Rayen fumbled on the first attempt at gain, with the ball falling on the ball for New Castle. On the 32 yard line, Hannon got three yards through right tackle, and McIntosh plunged 3 more, McAuley forward passed to Alexander for fifteen yards and first down. McAuley zigzagged for three yards gain, and Alexander added two more yards to it. Hannon fumbled, but Binder recovered for New Castle on the five yard line. Alexander crashed through a hole for four yards, and McIntosh went over the three touch down. McAuley forward passed to Alexander for the additional point. Score, New Castle 19, Rayen nothing.

Farrar kicked to Jones who returned it to the forty yard line. McAuley fumbled but held the ball and lost eight yards. Hannon recovered the loss with a nine yard line play, and McAuley tossed a forward pass to Hannon for a thirty yard gain and first down.

Offside Again
Hannon made six yards through the line but the team was offside and drew a five yard penalty. McAuley made up the penalty and a short forward pass was good for three yards. Another one McAuley to Hannon was incomplete and McIntosh punted to Connors who was downed almost on his own goal line. Rayen was forced to punt out on the first play and Hannon was downed on the thirty yard line. New Castle drew fifteen yards for holding. A double pass, McIntosh to Hannon got six yards, and McAuley made no gain through the line. McAuley started another forward pass but his receivers were not in position and he held the ball too long, getting thrown for a loss of eight yards. McIntosh punted out of bounds on the fifteen yard line.

Rayen Makes First Down
Up until this time Rayen had made but one first down, and that on a penalty decision in the first quarter. Cumiskey faked a kick on the next play, and made fifteen yards and first down through a broken field. Cumiskey failed to gain on a double pass and Smith made one yard around the end. Connors made a short pass over the line to Wolfe, but no gain resulted. Farrar kicked to Hannon on the thirty yard line. McAuley made eighteen yards around left end for a first down, as the quarter ended.

FOURTH QUARTER

New Castle failed to make first down on a series of line plays, and a short forward pass and it was Rayen's ball. On the first play Connors stepped out of bounds on the thirty yard line. The next play was the comedy of the entire game. Youngstown fumbled, but New Castle did not detect it. Patrick, the giant tackle fell on the ball but for some reason did not try to get up and run. In the meantime the scrimmage was going on ten yards to his left, with Patrick lying on the ball all the time.

Smith made six yards and Farrar punted to McAuley on the 45 yard line. Hannon made three yards through the line and McIntosh added four more. McAuley threw a forward pass to Thomas for twenty five yards gain but New Castle was penalized ten yards. McIntosh kicked but the punt was blocked and gained but little. Cumiskey made a first down, the third and last for Rayen in the game. Farrar tried a forward pass which was caught by McIntosh and then dropped. Smith failed to gain in two attempts and Farrar tried a forward pass on the fourth down which failed. It was New Castle's ball on its own thirty eight yard line. Dick Thomas got his long legs working fast enough to make fifteen yards on a wide end run for a first down and McAuley made another first down with one of his zigzag runs. McIntosh made eight yards but New Castle was penalized fifteen yards for holding. McIntosh threw a forward pass to Hannon and McIntosh made four yards through center on the next play. Waggoner was sent in as a substitute for O'Connor and instead of waiting for the first play before going to the huddle, waded right in and drew fifteen yards penalty for New Castle. McAuley threw a forward pass to Thomas for 20 yards and first down. McAuley made six yards around left end, and then threw another forward pass to Dick Thomas for three yards gain. Another forward pass was hurried by McAuley and a Rayen player hit it just about the goal line. The ball bounced up and Di Thomas caught it over the goal line but the referee decided that he had stepped out of bounds in the end zone.

Rayen's Ball
It was Rayen's ball on the twenty yard line. Cumiskey made eight yards on a nicely handed lateral pass and the team showed some flashes of fire here which might have helped it earlier in the game. The rally was started too late as the game ended with Youngstown making short, substantial gains.

Uncrowned Champions

Many fans on the Pacific Coast feel enthusiastically sure they have two uncrowned champions among the neighbors' children in the form of a coming welterweight, Young Corbett III, of Fresno, Cal., and in the football team of San Francisco's famous Olympic Club.

Young Corbett III is a newcomer to West Coast popularity but the Olympic Club's football fame extends back almost to the introduction of the grid game in California.

Olympic Club teams are composed chiefly of amateur ex-college stars—the pick of the Far West as a rule stellar native sons predominating. For years, the Olympics have beaten most of their opponents. So strenuous is their characteristic play that rival coaches usually play their second teams against the all-stars with

Record Of Downs Show Superiority Of New Castle Hi

New Castle Made 21 First Downs To Three For Rayen

Some idea of the reason for New Castle's victory over Rayen on Friday night can be gained from a summary of the downs and forward passes made by each team.

Rayen didn't gain much ground for the very good reason that they didn't have the ball very often and when they got it, it was usually in the danger zone and they were forced to kick on the first down.

In the first quarter New Castle made three first downs and Rayen made one. This one was made because a grounded forward pass was declared good when New Castle interfered with the receiver. New Castle completed one forward pass in the first quarter and two of them failed. Rayen was allowed the one mentioned above.

In the second quarter New Castle made nine first downs, and Rayen none. New Castle completed one forward pass, the only one tried. Rayen did not get a chance to try any forwards.

The third quarter New Castle made four first downs and Rayen one. New Castle completed four forward passes and failed with one. Rayen completed one forward pass.

In the fourth quarter, New Castle made five first downs, completed five forward passes and failed in one attempt. Rayen made one first down, completed one forward pass and failed in two other tries.

In the game New Castle made 21 first downs, Rayen three. New Castle completed eleven forward passes, failed in three attempts, or in other words completed eleven out of fourteen tries. Rayen made three forward passes out of five attempts.

"Dictated but not read" is another way of saying: "I can't tell whether the spelling is right or wrong, so I dodge responsibility for it."

Know this, that every country can produce good men.—Loring.

Aged Merchant Struck By Auto

Bernard Hirshberg Is Badly Injured In Auto Accident At Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 28.—Bernard Hirshberg, 73, of 260 Tod lane, vice president of the Strouss-Hirshberg Co., suffered a fractured skull late Friday when he was struck in Commerce street, opposite the entrance to the Central Square garage, by a car driven by James Whitacre, 29, of 1017 E. Madison.

Hirshberg was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital, where an operation was performed last night to relieve the pressure on the brain.

He has a chance for recovery due to this operation, it was reported at the hospital today.

Ten alleged reckless drivers were arrested late Friday and six other persons were injured in traffic accidents.

Whitacre told police that he was driving west on Commerce as Hirshberg walked into the rear of his car. The merchant was crossing the street from the Commerce street entrance of the Strouss-Hirshberg Co. to get his car, parked in the garage.

Baby Contest To Be Finished

When the recent community picnic was held in Hillsville by the Johnson and Lake Erie Limestone Companies a baby contest was planned. Because of the cool weather, Miss Maud Keyser, who was in charge of it, called the baby contest off.

However, the contest will be finished. The babies who were registered at the Johnson Limestone Well Baby Clinic last Tuesday will be considered entries in the contest and all babies brought to the clinic at the Lake Erie Limestone offices next Tuesday will be considered as contestants. The prizes will be awarded from the results of the records compiled. All mothers are urged to bring their babies to the clinic next Tuesday.

On Pioneer Women

FITTING CEREMONIES

A monument to the pioneer mothers of America was unwrapped and fitting ceremonies in the woods west of the saw mill yesterday. Hon. Editor Oale Fluhart was the orator of the occasion and among other things he said: "Our nation has been shamelessly remiss about doing something to perpetuate the memory of the stalwart heroines who built up the great west. Too much has been written about Davy Crockett, Wild Bill, General Custer, Daniel Boone, and other picturesque long-haired wing shots, and scarcely anything at all about the brave, noble, dauntless wives, mothers, and sweethearts who trudged across our continent in burlapome, creakin', covered wagons drawn by bony, downcast oxen. There they sat, hemmed in by pots and pans, and an' mebbe a favorite bureau or cook-stove, with their eyes glued on the western horizon while their husbands or sweethearts stumbled along on foot, an' prodded the slobberin' oxen. It is related of the pioneer women that never once did they look back during the long, jolnin', dusty, dangerous trip to the great open spaces of the west. The past, with all its joys and comforts, its society warm homes and good eats, lay behind the brave, square-jawed women, for they were ridin' toward a new day, they were followin' the weary, bewhiskered, dusty, adventurous men they'd promised to love, honor and obey. Hostile Indians lay ambushed in the mountain passes and in the tall grass, rattlesnakes were plentiful, coyotes and wolves were ever at hand and ready to attack a lame ox. Swollen rivers an' streams, bump prairie dog villages, mad as a sagebrush, retarded the progress of the cumbersome wagons, while sage-tainted antelope steaks were a daily race. Scarcely nothin' has been written about the tired, round-shouldered women, many of them mothers with five or six kids, who braved hardships during the winter of the west that make the ill-starred Greeley expedition to the north pole seem like a week-end at Madison, Indiana. Women bore all the brunt in buildin' up the great empire to our west. They were dumped out on boundless prairies with nothin' to carry on with but an ox, a shovel, some pots and kettles, and a plow. They lived in sod houses. Often water was ten miles off. Who was ther to coax our pioneer men to stay on the job but these women folk? Who stood behind their husbands and urged 'em to keep a stiff upper lip when grasshoppers eat up one crop after another? Not one-tenth enough has been written about the super-women who followed their men folk into the great unknown, who made possible cities like Omaha, Broken Bow, Neb.; Joplin, Missouri; Billin's, Montana; an' hundreds of other great centers of wealth. Scarcely anything at all has been done in stone to play up the women who in the late 40's bade farewell to civilization, climbed on the front seat and focused their eyes on the settin' sun without even blinkin'. Think o' the noses that were buried to a crisp durin' the long, bumpy trip to fer beyond the Platte. Aside from a lot of gorgeous sunsets, what did our women ever get in return fer all they endured in the conquest of the west?" (Copyright John F. Dille Co.)

ROAMING

With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

As long as night football is played in New Castle on Friday night there is little need explaining where the roaming will be done. The center of attraction is Franklin field watching the boys battle and while I've been watching football for 10 to these many years it never gets old, never gets boring and with the permission of the Great Referee, I'll be watching them when the present high school stars have great grandchildren.

Some of you folks who took up football as a sport in the past six or eight years really can't appreciate what the game is here in New Castle now. There was a time when the boys didn't even have a coach, when the captain of the team decided who would play and when equipment was so scarce that there was hardly a time when the eleven jerseys matched.

Ask Welty Rugh about the team he captained for New Castle high school. Welty will tell you about the practice sessions up on Boyles field, with about 15 players reporting. Signals

Getting on a couple of years you may remember Bill Horner, "Seventy Yard Bill" and what he did, or Dan Fisher, or Bunny Rosenblum. They were better coached than the earlier teams, but nothing like the teams of today.

To my mind, and your opinion may be entirely different, Miz Dart was one of the most vicious tacklers New Castle high school ever had. When Miz hit them it was with the idea that they would need a new player after he got through. And once he got sore the opposing linemen thought a wild cat had been let loose.

Miz was playing against Greenville one afternoon on Boyles field. The Greenville players had been laying for Miz and he was mad clear through. The back came through his side of the line and as he did Miz hit him like a five ton truck. The force of the tackle carried the man out of bounds and somehow Miz got up with his arms still wrapped around the player. Then he dropped him face down in a bed of gravel which was along the line.

But as heroic as they were there were too many injuries in the old days. Too much brawn and not enough train. Scooter Day would never have done much on the old time teams for they wanted weight. The games today are far more interesting for more thrilling and certainly more of a spectacle.

A player today on the New Castle team knows that he will be outfitted with proper equipment, that any injuries will be treated immediately and that his physical well being will be cared for in the best of style. Which is as it should be, for after all a high school player gets little but glory out of his work.

At noon the weather looked as though that Leesburg road opening would be a large affair. The rain probably hasn't spoiled any of the dirt roads and the temperature high enough to make outdoor speaking possible.

Sunday Cathedral Service Postponed

Sunday devotional services in the Cathedral will probably be a feature of this winter, and the first one was held last Sunday. It was planned to hold the second such service on Sunday, September 29, but this has been postponed, according to an announcement today by Attorney Robert McK. White.

Much Interest Is Attached To Miss MacDonald's Visit

By F. A. WRAY,
International News Service Staff Correspondent
LONDON, Sept. 26.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh came to Europe as the friendly ambassador of the air.

Miss Isabel MacDonald is going to America as the charming ambassador of the drawing room. Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald and his daughter, Miss Isabel sail for New York on the liner Berengaria upon a visit which has focused the interest of the whole world.

From New York they will go to Washington to be guests of President Hoover and the British ambassador, Sir Esme Howard.

Some one has suggested the question: "Will Miss Isabel leave her heart behind her in America?"

There is no indication that she will. She had no love affair at home so far is known and has devoted herself to the care of her father and to child welfare work.

Miss Isabel who is 26 is an old-fashioned girl. She admits it. She does not smoke and she does not dance. With a smile she admitted she was "an awful goody, goody." But all the same her absence of flapper attributes has won her the esteem and love of numberless people who regard her as the model daughter.

A young woman, Miss Veerdi Beha, is secretary of the Turkish embassy at Washington.

You can tell when a man has acquired a full million. He no longer delights in the word "conference."
